

There may be times when you are either away from your office computer/laptop/tablet and need to make some changes to your web site (or your client's web site) by editing some PHP code and don't have a secure and safe way to go about doing that. Don't worry, there is a safe, secure and FREE way you can do this very task. CodeAnywhere.com is your answer. CodeAnywhere is a free, web-based free development tool for the PHP language, giving you (the developer or savvy do-it-yourself web site owner) all the code editing capabilities needed to develop and maintain PHP applications online.

It is a really nice tool and we at SITCA have found it very useful as well. It even includes a real-time syntax code editor with support for all web formats and a great FTP editor. Visit their web site, who knows you just might find it becoming very handy.